creativity and community

Welcome to our 3rd Annual ArtSage Celebration!

As in years past, there are many events and activities to choose from. We've added 19 additional programs to this year's event. We realize as you're making plans, you'll need to make some tough choices. Select the events and programs you think you'll enjoy most.

We are extending a special invitation to all residents to attend a number of activities planned in our Meaningful Life spaces: Gardens West, The Woodlands, and in our magnificent, newly built, Seaside Cove.

We need your help! We will have a number of volunteer opportunities to help transport residents, guests and elders to venues from Gardens West, Seaside Cove and The Woodlands to ArtSage events across campus. Be sure to look for Volunteer Sign-up Sheets in the lobby of Cassels Tower.

This week-long celebration will also feature artwork from our incredibly talented residents, JKV employees, and local student artists from Westminster Academy and Innovation Charter School. Artwork will be on display throughout ArtSage Week in the lobbies of Cassels Tower, Village Towers, Heritage Tower, and East Lake. Be sure to make time to meet some of these talented artists during the Art Studio Open House on March 20th, and the Gallery Crawl on March 22nd.

ArtSage planning has been a team effort between staff, residents and the broader community. This celebration and collaboration is a shining example of what contributes to making JKV truly unique.

We hope you'll thoroughly enjoy the many wonderful opportunities ArtSage will bring!
See and experience "Where Possibility really plays!"

Warmest regards,

Monica McAfee

Chief Marketing & Innovation Officer

A special thanks to our
ArtSAGE Arts Alliance partners,
Venetian Arts Society and Nova Southeastern University.

Exclusive to JKV, the Train the Brain program tells us that our brains get better with age. To operate at peak performance, we must “use it or lose it”. Our brain lobes, or assets, are each associated with different traits:

- Our Frontal Lobe is associated with adaptation, justice and reason.
- Our Parietal Lobe is associated with adventure and spontaneity.
- Our Temporal Lobe is associated with attachment, and our emotions.
- The Occipital Lobe is associated with achievement.
- And our Default Network -- a network of neurons that develops after age 40 - is associated with our autobiography.

As part of JKV’s Train the Brain program, you can discover which of your brain assets that you’re using the least. Once you have this knowledge, you can seek out activities that strengthen that specific brain asset. If you’ve never attended a Train Your Brain Workshop here at JKV, don’t miss two opportunities during ArtSage week.

- Tuesday, March 19th, 10AM – 12PM @ Lakeside Dining
- Wednesday, March 20th, 1PM – 3PM @ Lakeside Dining

Each brain asset has been given a symbolic “gem” (See the Gem Key). Collect “gems” you may be missing by participating in activities which will challenge the asset you are trying to build. This will ensure you’ll have every one of these jewels in your “crown”.

As you browse through this book and plan which ArtSage events you’d like to attend, be sure to note the gems, or brain assets that you’ll be stimulating by attending a particular event.

Keep in “mind” that each of these activities can help you “Build Your Story”. For instance, through the Default Network, our brain develops wisdom through our autobiography, and the life experiences we collect. The “Build Your Story” Workshop allows us to explore how we want our story to continue.

Learn more at our next Build Your Story Workshop on:

- Wednesday, April 3rd, 10AM – 12PM @ Lakeside Dining

According to Phyllis Strupp, brain coach, author and creator of the John Knox Village “Train the Brain” program, humans are meant to be social. Knowledge can be acquired, but wisdom stems from our relationships with others. Build your knowledge by attending an ArtSage activity, outing, demonstration or workshop, and build your wisdom through enjoying these events with others. Try something new!

Be our guest - no cost. *RSVP Call (954) 783-4039
